Have You Examined the New Educational Music Course Four-Book Series

The course which provides for the teaching of music on the psychological basis. Teaching music by the formal rehearsal of meaningless songs is a thing of the past. The appeal to-day is made to the emotions—to patriotism, religion, love of home, duty. Dr. G. Stanley Hall claims that the prime end of musical education in the grades is to train the sentiments. This is the keynote of the Four-Book Series.

Primary Melodies 32 cents

"The rote songs are good and there is an abundance of sight-singing material."

"We have used Primary Melodies with the very best results. The children are very much better music readers, in fact they are in a class by themselves."

First Music Reader 36 cents

"Like other books of the course, based on the soundest pedagogy."

"Exceedingly well planned."

"Satisfactory as a basis for sight reading."

Intermediate Song Reader 40 cents

"The ideal book for the fifth and sixth grade. It meets the ever-increasing demand for beautiful music with interesting and lively words, which are at the same time simple enough for children of this age to sing spontaneously and with a feeling of power in independent performances."

"The great number of two-part songs is a great feature."

Junior Song and Chorus Book 60 cents

"The music is attractive, and yet simple in arrangement—an unusual combination."

"Especially suited to the changing voice, which is a problem every supervisor has to overcome."

"An especially nice feature is the piano accompaniments."

Great Schools of Opera

Probably no phase of music literature is so interesting altogether to the masses of people as is the Opera.

The Grafonola brings to every home and school excerpts from the greatest operas which may be studied at leisure and in detail; and the result of the newly stimulated interest is shown by the fact that opera stock companies are being organized in cities in different sections of the United States to give people the chance to hear and see the operas they have become interested in through Columbia Records.

The following records will prove valuable in contrasting the styles of Italian, French, and Russian.

ITALIAN
Rigoletto (Verdi). (Caro Nome.) Maria Barrientos.	48649 12 in.—1.50
Pagliacci Prologo (Prologue). (Leoncavallo.) Riccardo Stracciari.	49180 12 in.—1.50

One Hundred and One Best Songs

The history of our nation isn't all fact, much of it is feeling, that nameless thrill we know when the Colors pass by. Psychologists teach us that singing a patriotic song makes us feel patriotic because it releases emotions otherwise untouched. Let an hour with "One Hundred and One Best Songs" do the work of a week's lectures. (Patriotic, Sacred, Folk Songs, Songs of Sentiment and Home, all are here, and at a price that spells
